CIA Documentary

~~SIR. Richard Hall's letter on David Lawrence's May~~
6 column on the CIA documentary gives strained interpretations of what Lawrence said. The narration in the documentary was far from reportorial in character. It clearly implied that the comments of Mr. Dulles and Mr. Russell on moral and ethical considerations were biased and gave little value to Mr. Dulles' statements as to how CIA operations were checked by other elements of our government.

My very slight acquaintance with Mr. Dulles and Mr. Russell and analysis of Mr. Dulles' writings convinces me that both these men are most sincere and highly moral persons. Mr. Dulles' comments on the control of CIA operations are subject to verification by those involved. So far as I know they have not been disputed.

David Lawrence merely pointed out the flaws in the interpretation of the documentary. I am convinced he did it soundly and accurately.
